

Chelsea hoped, as she ran the distance to her house, that she would make it in time.

With no aliens in sight, Harrison snuck closer to the spaceship.

“Of course someone will show up for the party!” her dad assured her.

The rollercoaster loomed above, people screaming with delight and fear. Edna took her seat...

I stepped through just one portal...

And again, Theo's cat was meowing from way up high in the oak tree. But when Theo looked up, it was not just a cat that was peering down at him...

Ginger called for help...

Strange things were happening at the Jacoby's house...

Being famous was starting to get super awesome...

If the house was not haunted, it was most definitely creepy...